A BANDIT BETRAYS HIS FELLOWS.

THE OFFICIALS OF THE KANSAS CITY, ST. JOSEPH AND COUNCIL BLUFFS RAILROAD SEND OUT A DUMMY TRAIN-THE ROB-

BERS ALL LIVED IN ST. JOSEPH. MISSOURI-ONE OF THEM A YOUTH OF NINETEEN.

St. Joseph, Mo., Sept. 25 .- The Kansas City, St. Joseph and Council Bluffs road foiled an attempt to-day to rob one of its passenger trains, killed the bandits and captured four others. The exploit occurred at Francis, one and a half miles from this city, last night. The dead men are Fred" Kohler and Hugo Engel, of this city. names of those captured are Charles Fredericks,

N. A. Hurst, William Garver and Henry Gleitze Kansas City at 9:05 last night and arrived here at 12 50 this morning. The officials of the railroad had been informed that the robbery of the road had been planned, and they gave the information to the police. When the train arrived dummy train was made up and police officers and Sheriff's men, under command of the chief e, were put abourd.

In order thoroughty to deceive the robbers the train was made an exact duplicate of the train No. 3, const ting of an engine and tender, an express and baggage car, and the usual coach and When the dummy reached a point two miles north of St. Joseph the engineer's attention was arrested by a lighted lantern moving to and six masked men surrounded the engine. Two of the six mounted the engine and presenting revolvers at the engineer's head and at the fireman's head, held them in subjection. Five of the men then hastened to rob the express car. ROBBERS TAKEN BY SURPRISE.

policemen who were guarding the train were distributed in the various cars, the ma jority of them being concealed in the express car The robbers were taken completely by surprise but they opened fire at once upon the police The police returned the fire and a general fusilade followed. When the smoke cleared away, the lifeless bodies of Kohler and Engel were found.

The police quickly too three others in and placed them under arrest. The bandit who had been detailed to guard the engineer and fireman realized the situation when he heard the battle going on around the express car, and promptly made his A detail of officers were put on his track, and quickly took up the pursuit. They tracked him from the scene of the hold-up to the house of Mary Elsmer, in South-st., His pockets were full of ammunition, and three fingers of his left hand were shot off. He denied strenuously that he had taken any part in the attempted robbery, but refused to talk further. The police are confident that they have the right man, and he is securely locked pp at Police Headquarters.

The robbers were all residents of this city, and with two exceptions were desperate men Ther formed a plot last week to hold up and rob the Canada express at Roy's Branch, one mile above this city. Friday night was set for the robbery, but owing to the fact that the robbers got trains mixed up, the train of that day escaped. Yesterday the officials of the railroad company were informed by Hurst, who betrayed his companions, that another attempt would be made at 1 o'clock this morning at the same place MADE UP A DUMMY TRAIN.

The officials quietly sidetracked the regular train. and with a train made up to resemble the regular, the two rear coaches darkened to add to the deception, started for the place. In the baggage-car were fifteen armed police, commanded by Chief Broder, Sheriff Carson and four deputies, all heavily armed. General Manager Brown and Superintendent Hohl were also in the party. At the place stated by Hurst, a red light brought the to a stop, and Gleitze and Kohler jumped on the engine and, with pistols at the heads of Engineer Wright and Fireman Wise, ordered them to take dynamite and blow open the express car door under pain of death On a refusal, the two bandits asked the messenger to open the door, but he refused, and Kohler "Open up, or we'll blow you all to At this the firing began. The robbers stood their ground until Hugo Engel fell. Then the police made a rush and captured Fredericks Garver and Hurst, who were brought here and lodged in jail. Kohler's body was pierced by forty-three bullets, yet while he lay on the ground he managed to fire four shots before he died. Engel was struck by fourteen bullets, but lived a short time. Gieitze escaped. The coaches were riddled with bullets, and all of the windows were shot out. The officers escaped

THE BANDITS PREPARED WITH DYNAMITE.

The bandits had two sticks of dynamite, to each of which was attached a fuse about three feet long. It was known to the officers on the bogus train that dynamite might be used, and it was at first proposed to let the robbers explode some of it before firing on them. Before leaving St. Joseph, however, Chief Broder decided it would be a dangerous risk, and he instructed the bogus messenger to open the door before the robbers had a chance to explode the stuff. Chief Broder says there was enough dynamite to blow the car into splinters.

The bodies of the two dead bandits and the three captured men were placed on the train which they had attacked. The train then returned to the Francis-st. depot at 12:35, and the regular train went on its way. The passengers did not know what had happened. was quick work, and the train bearing the of-floers was back at the Francis-st, depot in just

W. O. Brown, who was in the first car, says Kohler was concealed behind some busines near the track when the train stopped. As the train slowed down fie walked toward it with his gun slowed down fie walked toward it with his gun cocked, cursing and ordering the supposed passengers to keep inside. Mr. Brown says he could be seen very piantly in the moonlight as he walked toward the car. After he had fired two or three shots he was seen to fall. He crawled behind come bushes and continued to shoot. He was being fired on by Sheriff Carson's men and the officers in the other car. When the flash from his gun was seen, the officers would pour a broadside into him. Finally he stopped shooting and Officer Hayes walked toward him. When Hayes was within ten feet of Kohler, the latter raised himself up on his arm and tried to shoot Hayes, but dropped back dead. Eugel fell soon after Kohler was killed, and when picked up was found to be mortally wounded. He was shot twice in the back of the head and his brains were ozzing out.

ORTY THOUSAND HOLLARS THE EXPECTED PRIZE Superintendent Hohl tells the following regarding the previous plans of the robbers: "On August 11 the men proposed to hold up a Burlington train. This plan was frustrated by semebody having driven off the horse and buggy which was hired by the Kohler brothers, who left it hitched in Felix-st. I next heard of a plan to hold up ansas City, St. Joseph and Council Bluffs Train No. 3 at Rushville during the fair week, but the location of the robbery was afterward changed to a point between St. Joseph and Amazonia, near Roy's Branch crossing. I was next advised that a stempt would be made to hold up Train No. 1 att Friday night. The robbers were all on hand, but they expected the fast freight train No. 17 lead of No. 3, and intended to let that train pass.

TRAIN ROBBERS TRAPPED.

No. 17 was late, however, and No. 3 went ahead of it, and before the robbers realized that the passenger train was coming they were unable to flag it, and they returned to the city and divided no.

"Fred" Kohler was only nineteen years old, but he was a hardened and desperate bay. He had been employed on the daily papers of St. Joseph as a carrier for two or three years. He had been married only a few days. Huso Engel was the son of a widow, who recently married Henry Gleitze, proprietor of a hotel. He was known as "Plug" Lugel, and was considered to be generally "tough." Henry Gleitze, who escaped, but was subsequently captured in this city, is an ex-convict. He was convicted for high-invay robbery about three years ago, and was sent to the penitentiary for two years. He has been out of prison about a year. AND FOILED A PLOT. Pittsburg, Sept. 25.-Later developments with refrence to last night's tragedy at Calamity show that there are two factions among the foreigners there-the one open and avowed Anarchists, the other having nothing to do with anarchy. Mr. and Mrs. Reese belonged to the latter party, while Marson and Brice, the murderers, are leaders among the former. In some way Mrs. Reese be Anarchists and her death was then decreed. Marson and Brice were chosen to kill her. It is reported that they had all arrangements made to Canada, where they were to engage in an attempt

A LITTLE GIRL FRIGHTFULLY CRUSHED.

THE MOTORMAN ARRESTED-THE JUSTICE DE-CLARES THAT THE CARS ARE RUN RECK-LESSLY AND MUCH TOO PAST.

Gussie Somers, nine years old, living at No. 985 Myrtle-ave., Brooklyn, was probably fatally in-ured yesterday by being run over by a trolley car on the Myrtle-ave, line At the time of the accithe child was trying to cross the street in front of her home. As the trolley car approached her she screamed aloud and threw out her right hand to catch hold of the iron guard rail of the front platform. The car was filled with passengers at the time, and those who happened to see the girl standing on the track uttered a cry of horror The motorman, James McBride, who lives at No. 1,776 Atlantic-ave., turned on the brake as soon as he saw the girl, but too late to prevent the front wheel from passing over her right hand, crushing She was thrown to the pavement, the force of the blow breaking both arms and legs and injuring her internally.

Moaning and bleeding, the child was lifted and carried to a neighboring drug store until an am-bulance surgeon arrived from the Eastern District Hospital and removed her to that institution. Officer Babbington, of the Thirteenth Precinct, arrested McBride, McBride was taken before Justice Goetting, where he declared that the car was running slowly, but the Justice replied that the rate of speed was altogether too rapid, and that something ought to be done at once to prohibit

"I've noticed," said the Justice, "the reckless way in which these electric cars are run, and I think it an outrage on the community. McBride was held in default of $1,000 bail for ex amination. At the hospital it was said last eve child could not recover. Both the right

New-Orleans, Sept. 25.-The barbarous crueltie that have disgraced Jefferson Parish have not end ed. Last night it was learned that a negro, who was arrested Saturday night on the suspicion of be ing Julien, the murderer of Judge Estopinal, ha been bound hand and foot and then tortured by having fire applied to his feet. The negro was ar rested for stealing a horse in the parish of Jeffer son, just below the city. Although he denied th charge he was arrested in Kenner, the home of Judge Long, the leader of the regulators, and as hi escription tallied almost exactly with that of Julien, the murderer, a movement was immediately set on foot to lynch him. Persons in the crowd who knew Julien denied that the prisoner was with the intention of extracting information from him regarding Julien's hiding-place. He could give nim regarding Julien's hiding-place. He could see none. His feet were horribly burned and swollen. Members of the mob assert that he attempted to hurn his way out of jail and in the attempt burned his feet. This story is not generally believed An investigation has been ordered by the Governor, and the regulators are very much scared. The leaders were all over the parish yesterday attempting to hush the matter up. They stand a good show of going to the penitentiary.

SEVERAL PERSONS INJURED.

St. Joseph, Mo., Sept. 25.-Many of the finest business houses of St. Joseph are in ruins to-night, and a million dollars' worth of property has been destroyed. About 10 o'clock this morning fire started on the top floor of the eight-story department store of Townsend & Wyatt, occupying half a block in the business centre of the town. When the Fire Department arrived it was found that the water pressure was weak and the firemen were comed to fight at a disadvantage. The entire building was soon in flames, and a strong wind from the north carried the flames across the street to the magnificent Commercial Bank structure, and it was soon destroyed. The Central Savings Bank went next, and then followed the Center Block. The Regnier & Shoup Crockery Company's new was next to succumb, and $75,000 worth of rayen will, it is expected, be well enough to be goods dropped into the cellar. The Carbrey Block was next attacked, and then the buildings of Binswanger & Co., the Hong Kong Tea Company, the Spencer Cigar Company, and a dozen smaller institutions went up. EXPELLED FROM THE MEDICAL SOCIET Y

DR. HENRY ROSNER PUNISHED BY HIS ASSO-CIATES-APPENDICITIS DISCUSSED.

Dr. Henry Rosner, of No. 215 East Eighty-third-Society of the County of New-York. A stated meeting of that society was held in the Academy of Medicine, and Dr. Rosner was accused of conduct unbecoming a physician and a gentleman. There were a number of charges against him. The investigating committee, consisting of Drs. Herrick, Emerson, Jackson and Roosevelt, found him gullty of every charge and he was unanimously expelled The principal paper of the evening was Dr. Eg bert H. Grandin's on "Appendicitis in the Female."

This topic is exciting great interest not alone among medical men, but in lay circles, and Dr. Grandin's paper was highly appreciated. Dr. Grandin says that appendicitis in females is interesting because of its complication at times with other There are, Dr. Grandin states, two rieties of appendicitis, catarrhal and purulent. He urges the immediate use of the knife on the puru-lent variety, for if delayed a tumor forms and peritonitis ensues. The only two useless parts of the body, said Dr. Grandin, quoting Oliver Wendell Holmes, are the spieca and vermiform appendix.

SAVAGE SPEECH IN THE SENATE

MR. STEWART, OF NEVADA, EXPRESSES HIS FEELINGS.

HE SAYS THE PRESIDENT USED "ANGRY AND MENACING TONES" WHEN REFERRING TO THE SENATE, AND " DELIBERATELY DISREGARDED" THE SILVER AND CHINESE LAWS.

(BY TELEGRAPH TO THE TRIBUNE.]

Washington, Sept. 25 .- The feature of the in Congress was a speech ator Stewart, which was remarkable for savage attack upon the President. described Mr. Cleveland as delivering his speech on the occasion of the centenary of the laying of the Capitol foundation-stone " with his face toward the Senate wing of the Capitol" and "in angry and menacing tones." Mr. Stewart obviously feels sure of the meaning which ought to be ascribed to the words of the President on that occasion, but probably nobody but the Nesada Senator recognized in the more than commonplace manner of delivery of the President on that day the "angry and menacing" voice which the silver champion ascribes to him.

The press, of course, came in for a share of the Senator's attention, the word "venal" being drawn upon more than once to express his con tempt for that institution. But Mr. Stewart was careful this time to refrain from going into particulars. He no doubt remembered the sharp letter received by him from the Editor of "The Washington Post," after having charged that paper with venality, which led to his making in open Senate one of the most complete apologies ever listened to in the chamber. This time he named Haskins was struck by a flying brick and was more circumspect as to details, but equally vigorous as to the general charge.

Mr. Stewart charged the President with having deliberately disregarded the laws enacted by Con gress with regard to the purchase of silver and the immigration of Chinese In connection with the form'r charges he made the character stic statement that the market value of any given commodity is the price demanded by the seller. Hence the price put upon silver by bullion offered to the Treasury Department by the mine-owners or dealers in bullion is, in Mr. Stewart's opinion, the market price of silver, no matter what it may be quoted at in London, and the President or his secretary of the Treasury, in refusing to purchase at the mine-owners' figures, lays himself open to impeachment.

The Senate had scarcely recovered its breath from this remarkable proposition, which Mr. Stewart is said to be prepared to incorporate in his 'Manual of Elementary Positical Economy," which he may possibly intend for the use of what he terms "the asylum of minorities," meaning thereby the United States Senate, than that body was treated to an elucidation of the President's personal record. He read from the autobiography to be found in the Congressional Directory, accompanying the reading by comment intended to be more or less sarcastic, and receiving, significantly enough, the tribute of Democratic laughter whenever he formed a joke or made a point. The scene certainly did not add to the reputation of the Senate as being, to use the Vice-President's language on a memorable cocasion, "the most august assembly of the universe."

Senator Cameron's silver views are well enough known everywhere. His speech to-day, therefore, was no surprise, and furnished no subject for was no surprise, and lurnished no statect tor comment among his colleagues. Briefly stated, Mr. Cameron's argument was based upon the idea that the silver policy of the Government had so far not been detrimental to the interests of Penn-sylvavia, and that the suspension of silver pur-chases would lead to a dangerous contraction of the currency. Senator Bate's speech does not add a single new argument to the pending dis-cussion. It was scarcely expected that it would.

WITH A "CONGRESS ON HIS HANDS." MR. CLEVELAND'S CHOICE OF WORDS DOESN'T

SUIT THE SILVER CHAMPION. Washington, Sept. 25 .- President Cleveland was the object of a prolonged personal attack in the Senate to-day on the part of Senator Stewart (Rep., Nev.). Mr. Stewart spoke for nearly three hours on the resolution which he had offered last Saturday as to the relative independence of the three co-ordinate branches of the Government. That independence he charged the President with disregarding in many ways, but particularly in not ausing the Silver Purchase law and the Chinese Expulsion law to be faithfully executed. But worse even than the non-execution of these laws appeared allusions to Congress which he found in some of Mr. Cleveland's letters and interviews. He was particularly embittered at the President's allusion in one of his letters to "having Congress on his The attendance of Senators was unusually small. This was the text of the resolution: Resolved. That the independence of the co-ordinate departments of the Government-the Legislative, the Ex-ecutive, and the Judicial-must be maintained, and that the use of the power and influence of one department to rol the action of another is in violation of the Constitution and destructive of our form of government.

Mr. Stewart, in speaking on the resolution, began with a citation from President Cleveland's speech last Monday, on the occasion of commemorating the hundreth anniversary of the laying of the cornerstone of the Capitol. The speech, he said, had been made by a President having more than 100,000 Federal offices to dispose of, and with a veto power which had been designed only for extraordinary occasions, backed by concentrated capital and encouraged and flattered by a venal press. He described Mr. Cleveland on that occasion as "turning his face toward the Senate wing of the Capitol and, in angry and menacing tones, using the

"If the Representatives who here assemble to make laws for their follow-countrymen forget the duty of broad and disinterested patriotism, and legislate in prejudice and passion, or in behalf of sectional or selfish interests, the time when the cornerstone of the Capitol was laid and the circumstances surrounding it will not be worthy of commemorating." This declaration, Mr. Stewart said, had been cheered and encouraged by a thoughtless multi-tude, and construed by a venal press as a rebuke from the President of the United States to the Senate. The struggle for constitutional liberty (he continued) of the Anglo-Saxon race, which had been long, arduous and attended with many sacrifices, had lasted now for nearly a thousand years. He then quoted at great length from Macaulay's His-tory of England as to the parliamentary struggle with the Stuart kings. SILVER PURCHASES NOT COMPLETE.

Mr. Stewart charged that the President, in disregard of his oath of office to execute the laws, and permitted the Secretary of the Treasury to violate the law of January 14, 1890, which made the pur-chase of 4,500,000 ounces of silver bullion per month mandatory. In proof of this charge he presented a letter from the Secretary of the Treasury, showing that in the month of July last 6,068,000 ounces of silver bullion had been offered and only 2,392,618 ounces purchased; and in August 4,783,000 ounces offered and only 3,887,500 purchased. He had not yet the statement for this month, but he understo purchases were still less, although silver bullion was offered far below the cost of production. He could not conceive how this could be justified in view of the scarcity of currency, which should have been increased by the issue of treasury certificates for silver builton. He knew that an excuse was made that silver builton was not purchased because the holders asked more than the market price, but he insisted that the market price of property was that at which the owner was willing to sell. However ch some Senators might deprecate the law of July 14, 1890—as King James had deprecated laws on the English statute book—all (both high and low) had to obey the law if civil liberty was
